

The possibilities of the IVS[®]

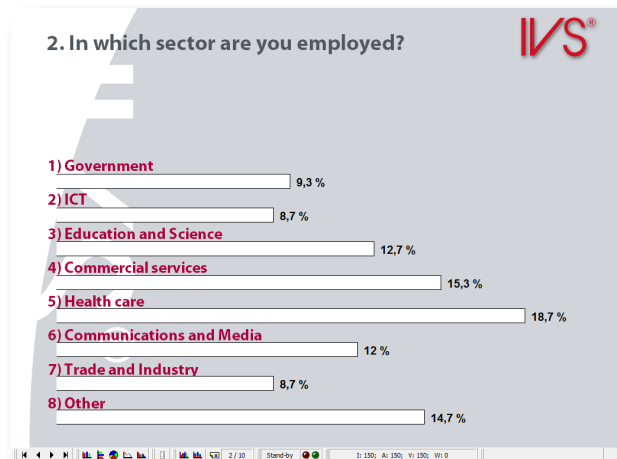

Interact!

Let your participants respond directly to questions that are posed. This way they are actively involved in the presentation.

Who is present?

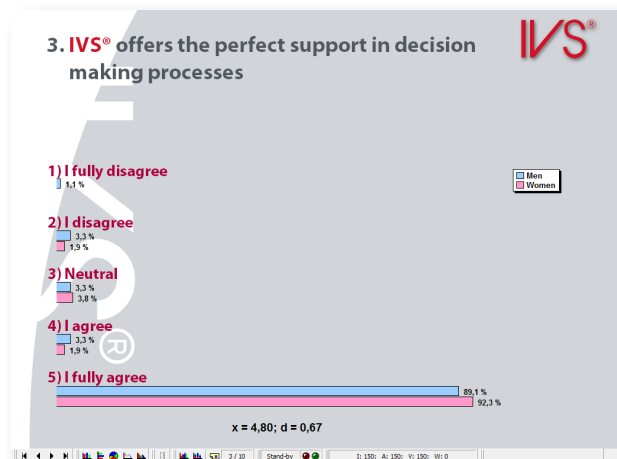

Questions about age, position, department or any other references that could be interesting to you, will provide you with information about the exact composition of your audience.

Consensus

Measure if your audience agrees on a proposition. You can get direct insight in the results. This allows you to see if there is a basis to make a decision.

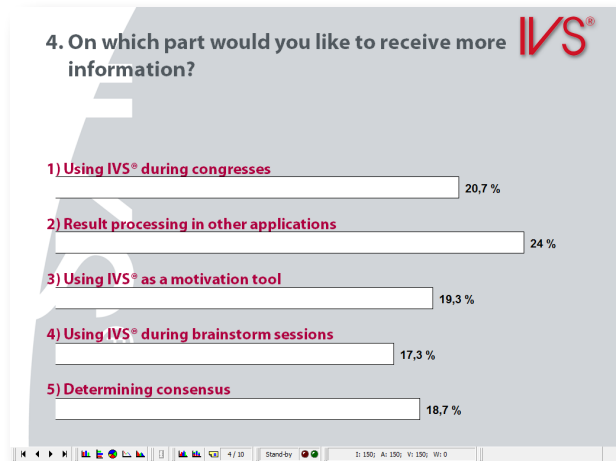

By crossing the results with earlier voted references, you can get a clear insight in the consensus per group.

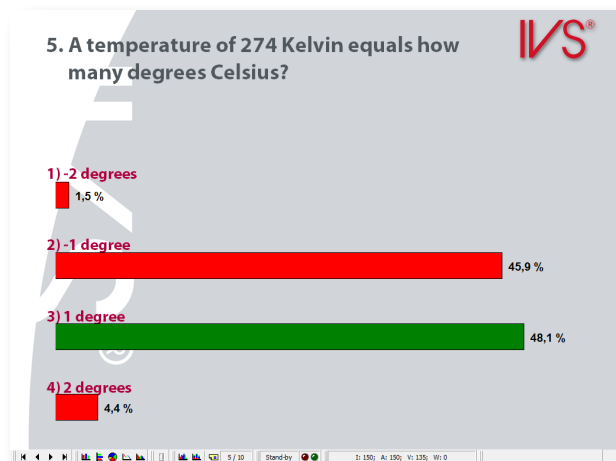

Has your message been received?

During or after the presentation you can ask a question about the contents of your presentation. You then immediately know if your presentation was clear to your audience. Doing this even during your presentation allows you to adjust your presentation on time.

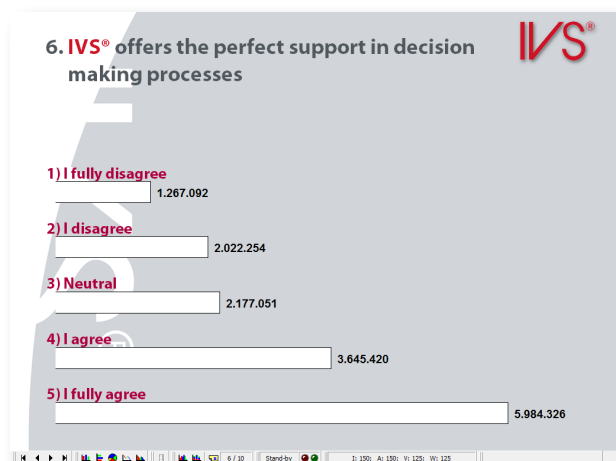

Knowledge testing

With IVS[®] you can show your audience the correct answer to the question you posed. This allows you to immediately explain the question and the corresponding answers.

Weighted voting

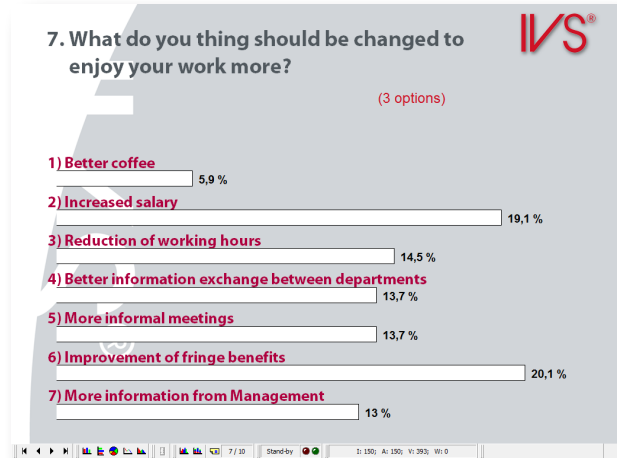

By using the chip card functionality, you can register the individual results of each participant. It is also possible to link a weight to a chip card. This weight is immediately processed when voting.

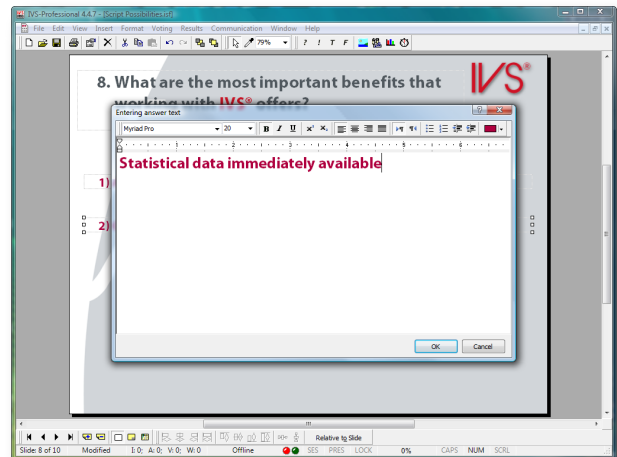

Employee satisfaction monitoring

IVS[®] allows you to conduct a survey of your employees, which allows them to anonymously give their opinion about subjects that you would like to have more information about.

Brainstorm

During a presentation, a question may rise that you want the entire audience to give their opinion about. You can enter this question immediately into IVS[®]. In the same way you can enter the answers. This way, the results of a brainstorm session can be processed immediately. If necessary, the audience can immediately vote on this question.

Evaluation

Following on a congress you can have the evaluation take place electronically. The results are immediately at your disposal for further processing.
